2014 to Present

Developer Advocate | Front-End Web Developer | Community Manager | Events Lead 2016 to Present

Nurture growing Offline First community through camp-style unconferences, blogs, videos, social media, code samples, tutorials, and talks. Determine event sponsorship and execution strategy for Developer Advocacy team of IBM Watson and Cloud Platform, connecting marketing teams with best demo content for live developer events.

- Promoted Offline First development approach to prospective IBM Cloudant users by building Progressive Web Apps, writing beginner-friendly tutorials and documentation, and delivering talks at Meetups and conferences.
- Built growing Offline First community of web developers, UX professionals, and business leaders by co-organizing Offline Camp, series of uniquely impactful 30-person tech retreats.
- Fostered community growth by editing and writing blog posts for Offline Camp Medium publication, recruiting past campers and volunteers to author session summaries and related articles on Offline First technology.
- Increased community engagement by curating Offline First videos, event listings, and other resources to share through community's website, Twitter, YouTube, and Slack channels.
- Strengthened team's reach by organizing mentorships, training sessions, and periodic evaluation for 7 interns, directly mentoring 5 interns.

Community Engagement Program Manager | Event Marketing Manager

2014 to 2016

Introduced prospective customers to NoSQL Database-as-a-Service (DBaaS) products and open-source technologies by organizing tradeshow presence and developer workshops with key focus on IBM Cloudant and Apache CouchDB™. Held role during startup Cloudant's acquisition by IBM; maintained cost savings and focus on developer audience while navigating transition of branding guidelines and budget regulations.

- Enhanced awareness of IBM Cloudant and other cloud data services in developer and data science communities by strategically executing tradeshow booths and surround events at over 50 conferences yearly. Accelerated leads at developer events 84% year-over-year through creative tradeshow booth elements and surrounding marketing events and activities.

WELLESLEY INFORMATION SERVICES, dba FUTURE INSIGHTS, Dedham, MA

2012 to 2014

Senior Event Manager

Contracted, planned, and executed 9 conferences annually for audiences of 150-800 web designers and developers throughout US and Europe, taking over logistics for well-known Future of Web Apps and Future of Web Design events after Wellesley Information Services acquired Carsonified's event business.

- Augmented audience participation and engagement by integrating creative elements for high-tech crowd, including graffiti walls, games, and social media challenges.
- Created seamless experiences for attendees by overseeing on-site event operations and serving as project manager and primary communications liaison between internal departments and external vendors.
